

Customer Problem Statement – HouseRent Project

Purpose

The Customer Problem Statement helps identify the challenges faced by tenants, property owners, and landlords during the house rental process. Understanding these challenges enables the development of a user-friendly platform that provides efficient, reliable, and convenient rental services.

Customer Problem Statement

Customer Segment 1: Tenants / Renters

Who is the customer?

Individuals, students, working professionals, and families looking for rental properties that match their budget, location, and requirements.

What problem are they facing?

Finding suitable rental properties is often time-consuming and difficult. Tenants need to browse multiple websites, contact different property owners, compare options manually, and visit properties physically before making a decision.

Why is this a problem?

- Lack of centralized property information.
- Limited filtering and search options.
- Difficulty comparing multiple properties.
- Delayed communication with property owners.
- Incomplete or outdated property details.

Customer Problem Statement

"Tenants need a simple and reliable way to search, compare, and book rental properties because traditional property search methods are time-consuming, inefficient, and often lack accurate information."

Customer Segment 2: Property Owners / Landlords

Who is the customer?

Property owners and landlords who want to rent out their houses, apartments, or commercial properties.

What problem are they facing?

Property owners often struggle to reach potential tenants, manage property listings, handle inquiries, and keep track of booking requests.

Why is this a problem?

- Limited visibility of property listings.
- Difficulty managing multiple inquiries.
- Manual tracking of bookings.
- Time-consuming communication process.

Customer Problem Statement

"Property owners need an efficient platform to showcase and manage their properties because traditional advertising methods do not provide sufficient visibility and require significant manual effort."
